

VOL. VIII., NO. 6. OCTOBER 10, 1918.

PRICE TEN CENTS

MID-WEEK PICTORIAL

An Illustrated Weekly

PUBLISHED BY The New York Times COMPANY

PARADE ON FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK, AT OPENING OF FOURTH
LIBERTY LOAN, SEPTEMBER 28, 1918.

(© Times Photo Service.)

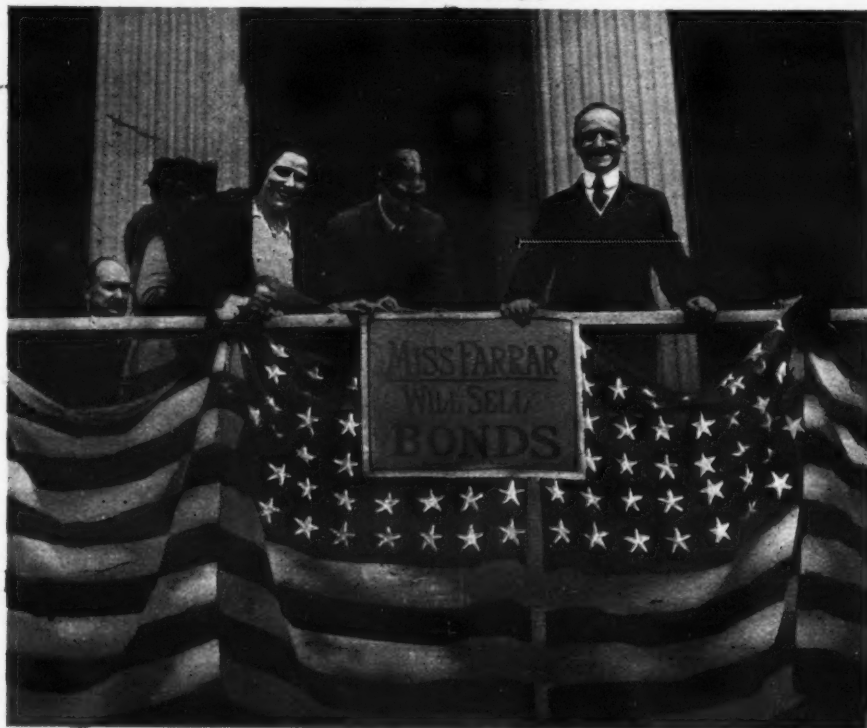

A Flashlight on Some Aspects of the War

In Washington There Is Such a Congestion in Housing Facilities That Dormitories for Government Use Are Being Erected on a Space Which Was to Have Been Developed Into a Splendid Park. Beauty Has Had to Yield to Utility Under the Pressure of Wartime Necessities.
(© Harris & Ewing.)

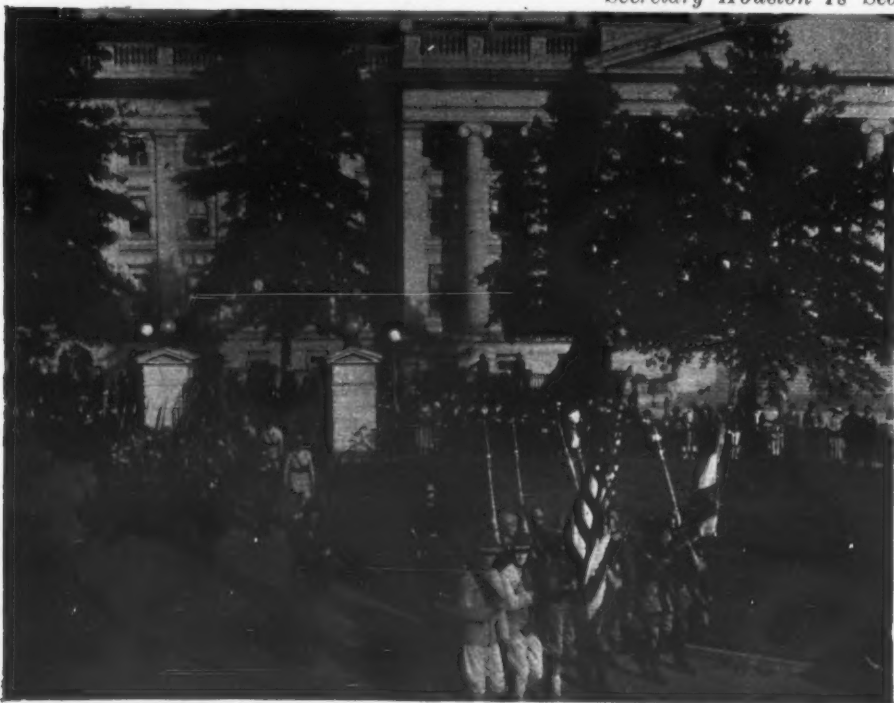

Senor Manuel Gondra, former President of Paraguay, now Minister from Paraguay to the United States. He is a thorough student of world politics and a distinct addition to the Diplomatic Corps.
(© Harris & Ewing.)

Miss Geraldine Farrar, Opera Singer and Motion Picture Star, Selling the First Bond of the Fourth Liberty Loan to W. G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, on the South Portico of the Treasury Building. Secretary Houston Is Seated at the Left. (© Harris & Ewing.)

General A. Gvosdenovitch, first Minister from Montenegro to the United States. He is a veteran of five wars and the recipient of decorations for bravery from the Governments of Russia, Italy, and Montenegro.
(© Harris & Ewing.)

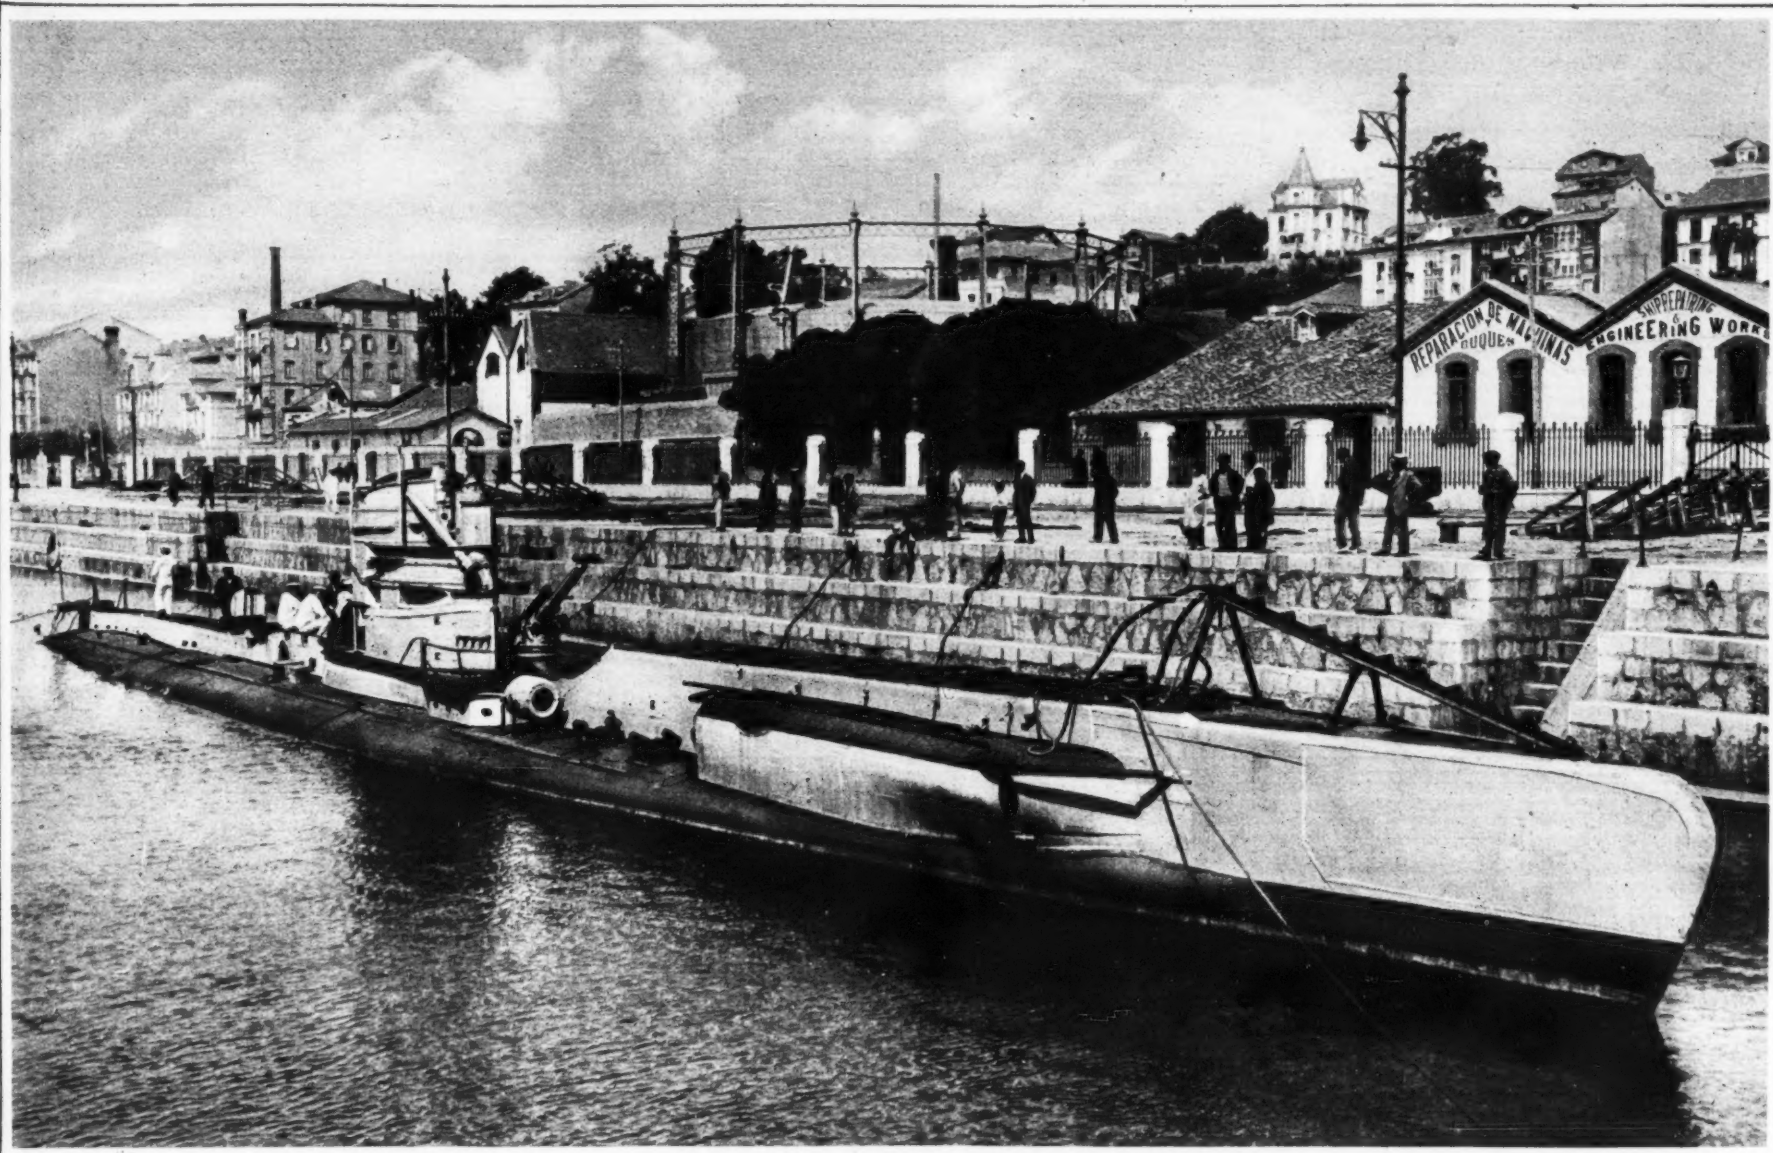

Members of the Famous French Foreign Legion Marching into the White House Grounds for a Call on President Wilson. They Are Preceded by the Stars and Stripes and the Tri-color.
(© Harris & Ewing.)

Ambassador Jusserand Presenting to the U. S. Senate Two Handsome Vases in Appreciation of the Cordial Reception Accorded to Marshal Joffre and ex-Premier Viviani. The Ambassador is Seen Talking to Vice President Marshall.
(© Harris & Ewing.)

German Sea and Land Weapons Now Out of the Fighting

◆ THE GERMAN SUBMARINE U-56, RECENTLY INTERNED AT SANTANDER, SPAIN. SUBMARINE ATTACKS ON SPANISH SHIPPING HAVE PROVOKED A STRONG REMONSTRANCE FROM MADRID TO BERLIN. ◆

© Underwood & Underwood.)

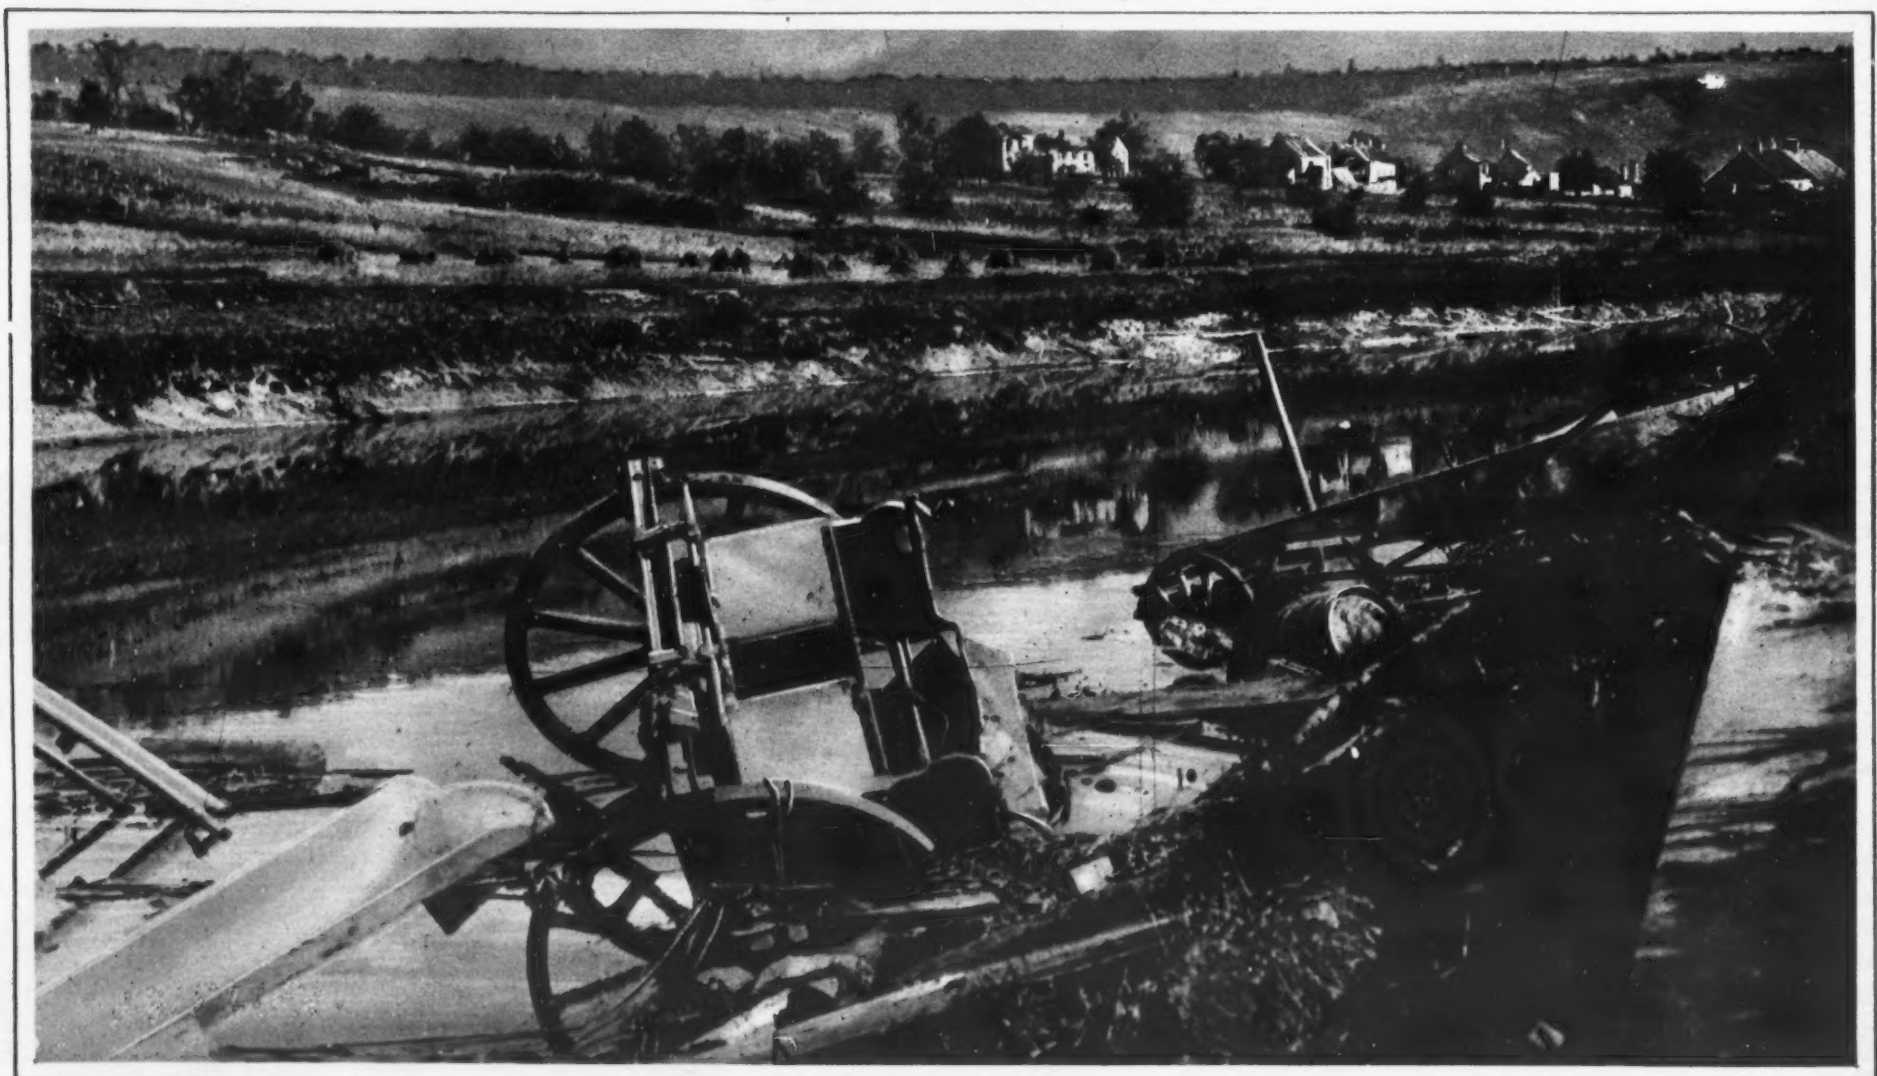

SOME OF THE VAST WAR MATERIAL CAPTURED FROM THE GERMANS IN THE RECENT ALLIED ADVANCE. THESE CANNON BORDER AN AVENUE LEADING TO GENERAL MANGIN'S HEADQUARTERS.

Wreckage Left in Wake of German

FRENCH AND ENGLISH SOLDIERS LOOKING OVER SHATTERED CHATEAU-THIERRY.
(© Committee on Public Information.)

WAR MATERIAL ABANDONED BY THE GERMANS.
(© French Official Photograph, from Underwood & Underwood.)

The toll exacted by war from a defeated army is graphically shown by this group of pictures. They represent scenes in and about Chateau-Thierry and Dormans on the Marne, the points that marked the extreme limit of the Crown

Prince's thrust toward Paris. They should have a special interest for Americans because it was at these points that American troops were first called on to display their fighting qualities in a major operation. How stubbornly they blocked the road to Paris at Chateau-Thierry and how promptly they threw the crack Prussian regiments back across the Marne at Dormans are matters of history. The aid afforded by our troops at this critical juncture has been warmly acknowledged by the French and British leaders.

In the top picture at the left American and French brothers in arms are looking over the city that their valor had helped to save. The shelling to which the city had been subjected, while inflicting considerable damage, has left it still in much better condition than many of its sister

Army Retreating from the Marne

GERMAN GRAVES INDICATED BY SHELLS AND HELMETS.
(© French Pictorial Service.)

FRENCH ENGINEERS SALVAGING PARTS OF PONTOON BRIDGE AT DORMANS.
(Official Photograph © Western Newspaper Union.)

cities in the battle zone. Much wanton destruction was wrought in the interior of the buildings, however, before the invaders began their retreat.

How precipitate their retreat became is indicated by the overturned vehicles and war material shown in the lower picture at the left. Hundreds of guns and many thousands of prisoners were captured by the Allies, while vast quantities of ammunition and stores were burned by the Germans to prevent their falling into the hands of their pursuers. The bulkier objects, however, had to be left behind, as, for instance, the sections of the pontoon bridges that in the lower right hand picture are being drawn from the Marne by the French engineers.

But the most fatal wastage of the retreat, and the most difficult to replace, is shown by the row of German graves, marked by shells and helmets, in the upper picture at the right. In this great retreat it is estimated that the German loss from all causes totaled 600,000 men. Since the retreat began 600,000 American soldiers have landed in France.

00005

EMPLACEMENT OF 380 MM. GERMAN GUN IN A WOOD OF EASTERN FRANCE. THE TRACKS ARE SHOWN ON WHICH THE GERMANS BROUGHT THE GUN IN AND LATER CARRIED IT AWAY.

(© Committee on Public Information.)

Happenings on the British Battlefront in France

BRITISH TROOPS RESTING NEAR A RUINED HOUSE DURING A LULL IN THE FIGHTING. ADJOINING THE HOUSE CAN BE SEEN A GROUP OF NISSEN HUTS.

(British Official Photo © Associated Illustration Agencies.)

GERMAN PRISONERS BEING UTILIZED BY THE BRITISH AS STRETCHER BEARERS AFTER AN OUTPOST SKIRMISH. THEY ARE HERE SHOWN WHILE CROSSING A TRENCH—A DIFFICULT OPERATION.

(British Official Photo © Underwood & Underwood.)

00007

FRENCH SOLDIERS DRAWN UP FOR REVIEW ON EDGE OF WOODS STILL UNSCARRED BY WAR.

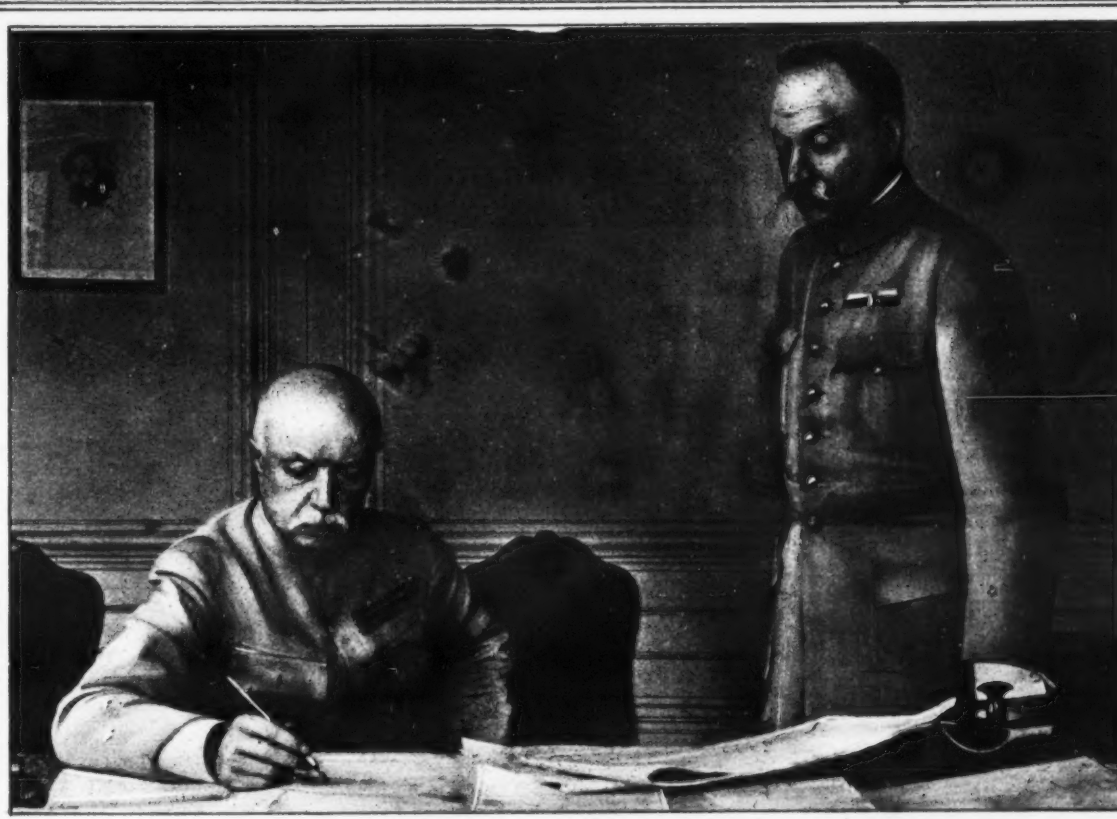

(© Committee on Public Information.)

A Group of Distinguished Figures on the Western Front

Most of the personages here shown are at present claiming a large part of the world's attention. Reading from left to right, the principal figures are (1) General Sir Henry Rawlinson, (2) Marshal Foch, (3) King George V. of England, (4) Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, (5) General Petain. The others are members of the royal entourage and members of the French and British military staffs.

(British Official Photo, 6) Underwood & Underwood.)

General Fayolle, who commands the army group comprising the forces of Generals Mangin, Humbert, and Debeney, is here shown studying his maps. His Chief of Staff, General Pagnette, is standing beside him.

(© Underwood & Underwood.)

King George V. of England recently visited the 33d American Division and distributed medals for gallantry. Following the ceremony the American national anthem was played and the official party stood at salute. The chief figures, reading from left to right, are (1) General Pershing, (2) General Bliss, (3) Major General Bell, (4) King George, (5) General Horman (British), (6) Major Ford Hamilton (British)

(© Press Illustrating Service, Inc.)

The Desolated Towns of Roye and Noyon

FRENCH ENGINEERS CLEARING THE STREETS OF ROYE AFTER ITS SECOND RECAPTURE DURING THE PRESENT ALLIED ADVANCE.
(© French Pictorial Service.)

SOISSONS, A STORM CENTRE IN MANY WARS, HAS NEVER BEFORE BEEN SO COMPLETELY DEVASTATED. THE ROUND TOWER MARKS THE SITE OF A GREAT DISTILLERY.
(© Underwood & Underwood.)

Twice Captured and Twice Redeemed

RAILROAD AVENUE AND RAILROAD STATION AT ROYE, ONCE THE MOST POPULOUS AND BUSY PART OF THE TOWN.

(© French Official Photograph, Western Newspaper Union.)

THE RUINED VILLAGE OF ASSAINVILLERS. A RELIC OF THE INVADERS IS SEEN IN THE ABANDONED 150 MM. GERMAN GUN AT THE RIGHT.

(© French Pictorial Service.)

How the Tide of Battle Has Ebbed and Flowed on t

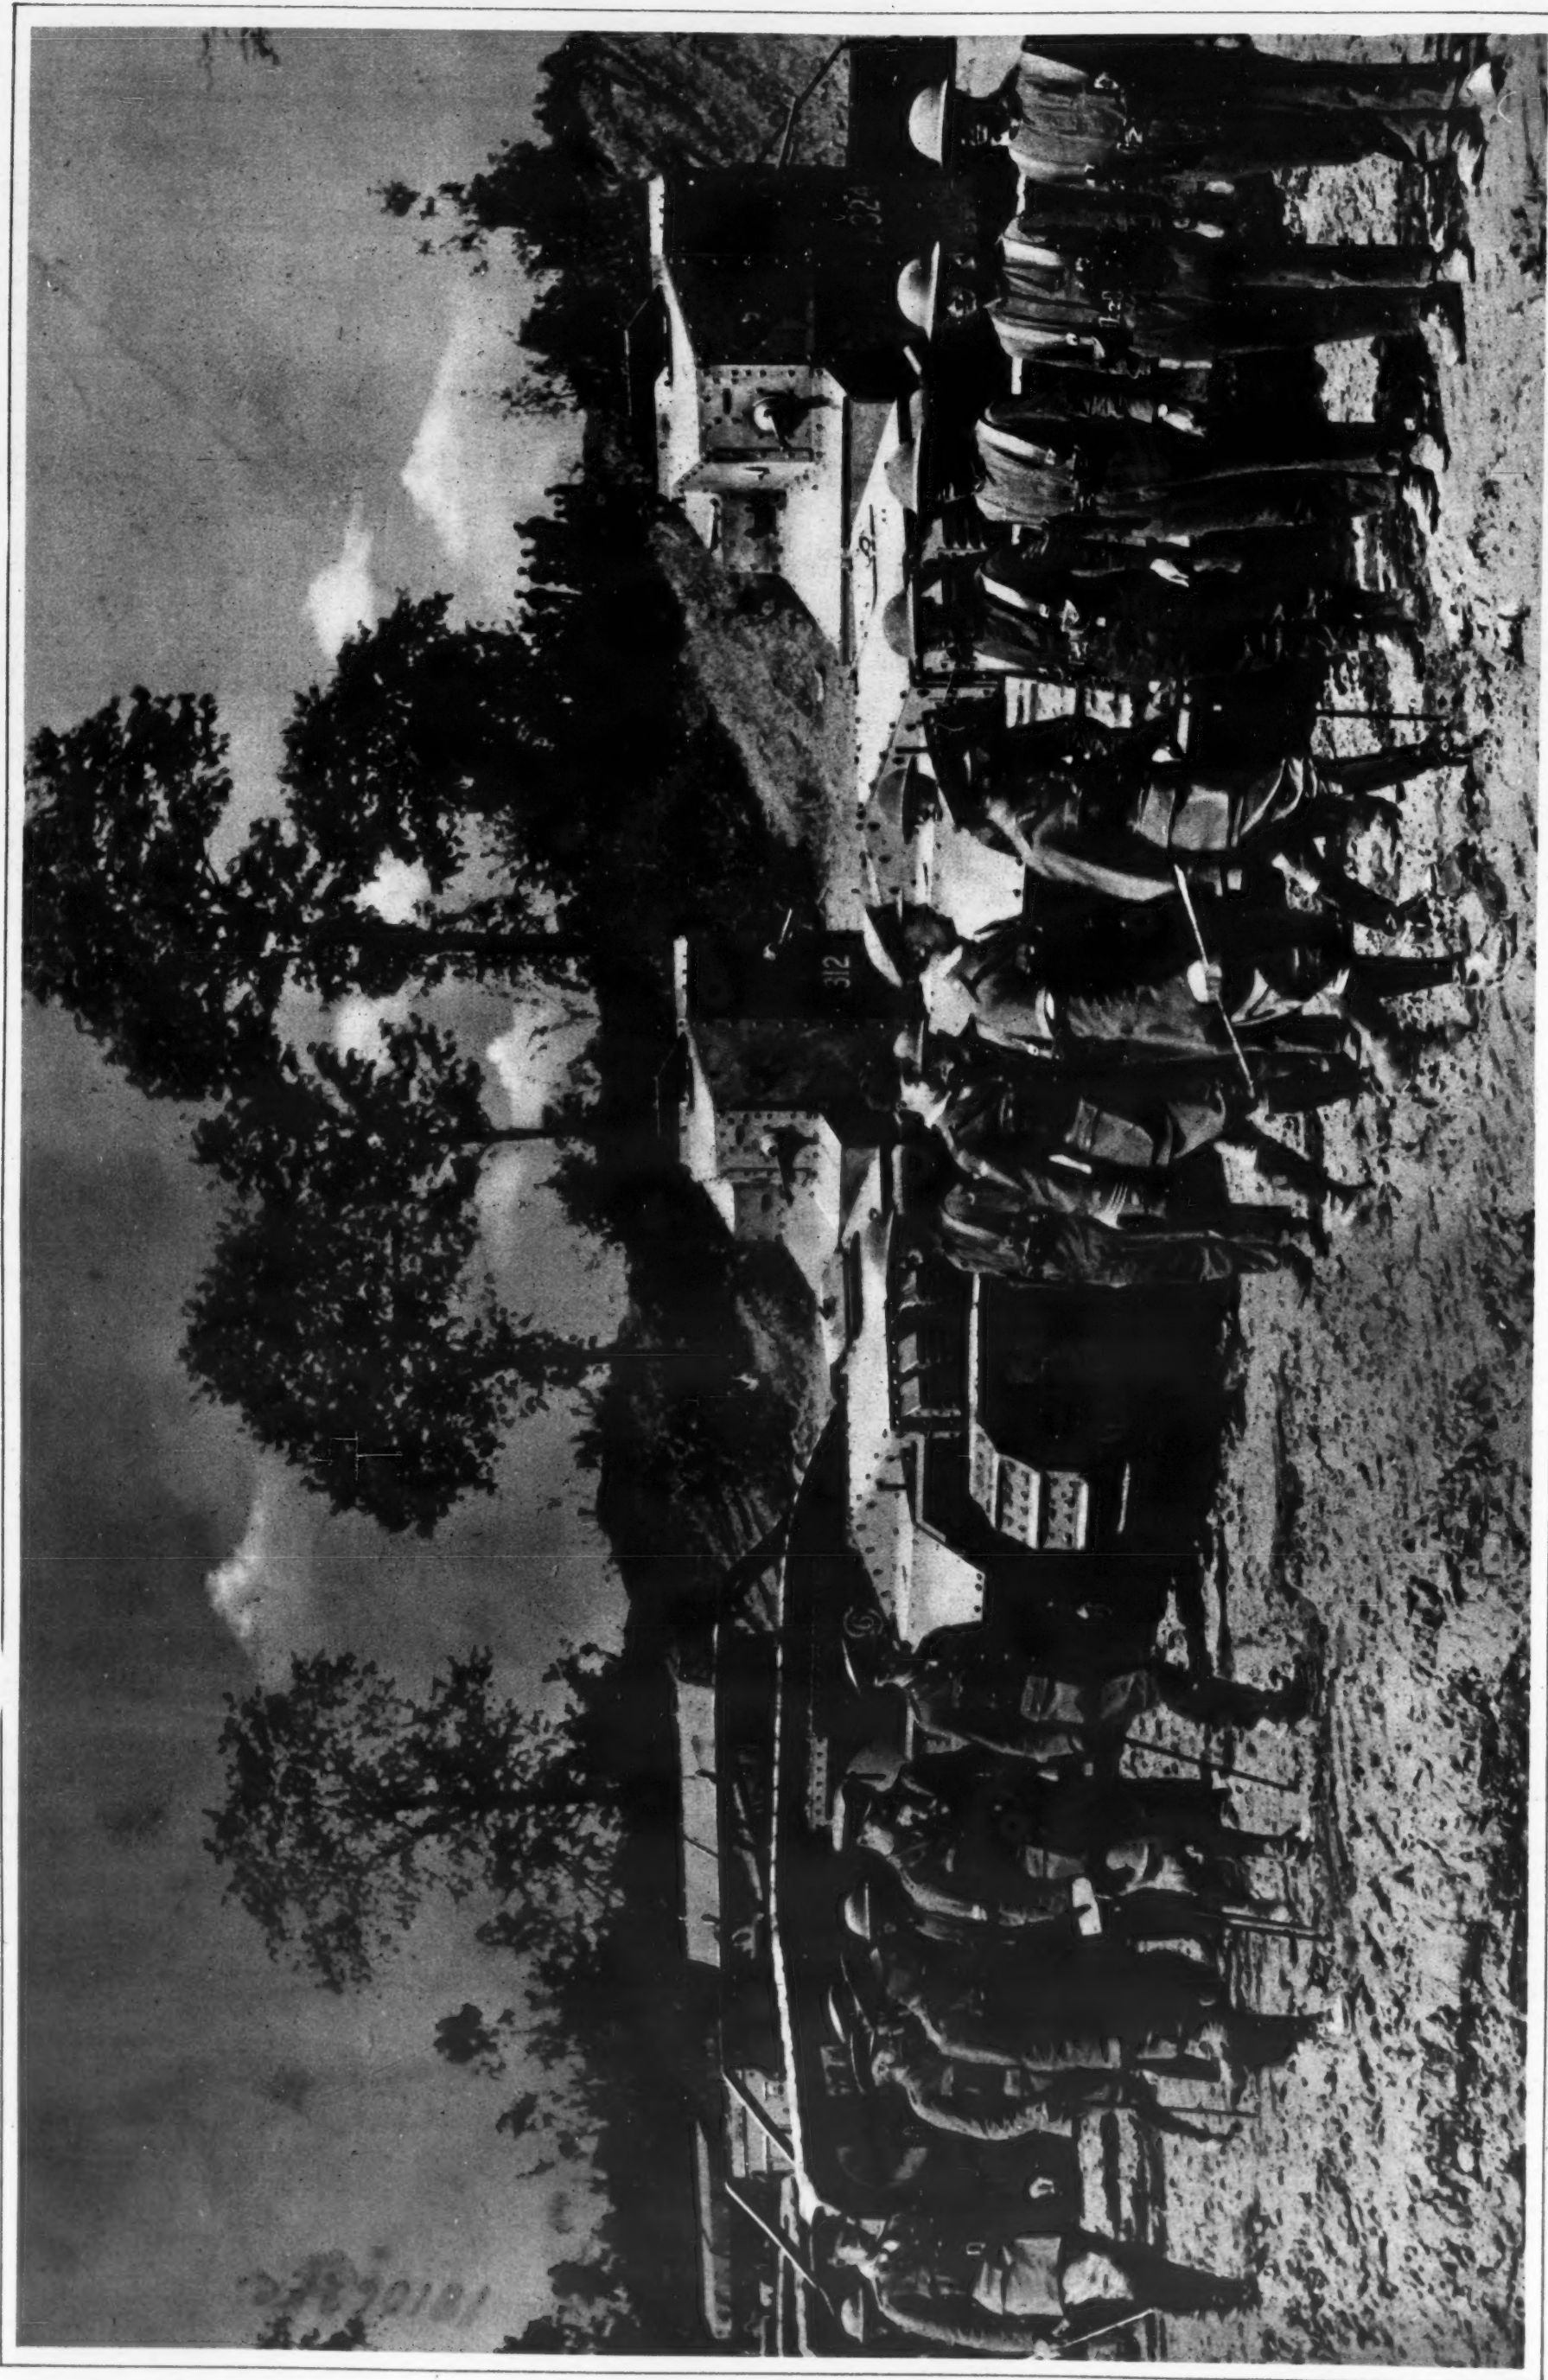

THE ABOVE MAP SHOWS EVERY GREAT CHANGE THAT HAS TAKEN PLACE SINCE THE GERMAN INVASION IN 1914. THE WHITE LINE SHOWS

on the Western Front from the Beginning of the War

AS TAKEN PLACE IN THE BATTLE LINES IN THE WEST, DATING FROM E SHOWS THE POSITION OF THE OPPOSING ARMIES ON OCT. 3.

KING GEORGE V. OF ENGLAND INSPECTING TANK CREWS WHO HAVE BEEN IN THE THICK OF THE RECENT FIGHTING.

(Official Photo © Underwood & Underwood.)

Scenes on the British Western Front in France

TYPES OF GERMAN MORTARS CAPTURED BY THE BRITISH IN THE OFFENSIVE ON THE WESTERN FRONT.
(British Official Photo © Underwood & Underwood.)

BRITISH MACHINE GUNNERS HOLDING THE FRONT LINE ON THE EDGE OF A MINE CRATER.
(© Press Illustrating Service.)

The claim often repeated that this war is above all others a war of machines is emphasized by this group of illustrations. The tanks, which are Great Britain's contribution to the mechanical side of warfare, have played an important part in the allied offensive that began on July 18. King George of England in a recent visit to the British front paid special attention to the officers and men of the tank service, upon some of whom he conferred decorations for gallantry displayed in the recent fighting.

The trench mortars captured by the Allies have been extensively employed by the Germans. Their range is not great, but they are very effective when the opposing armies are facing each other over a narrow strip of No Man's Land.

The highly organized trench of the early part of the war has been largely superseded by the hasty enlargement and development of shell holes and mine craters, such as the soldiers are here shown defending with machine guns.

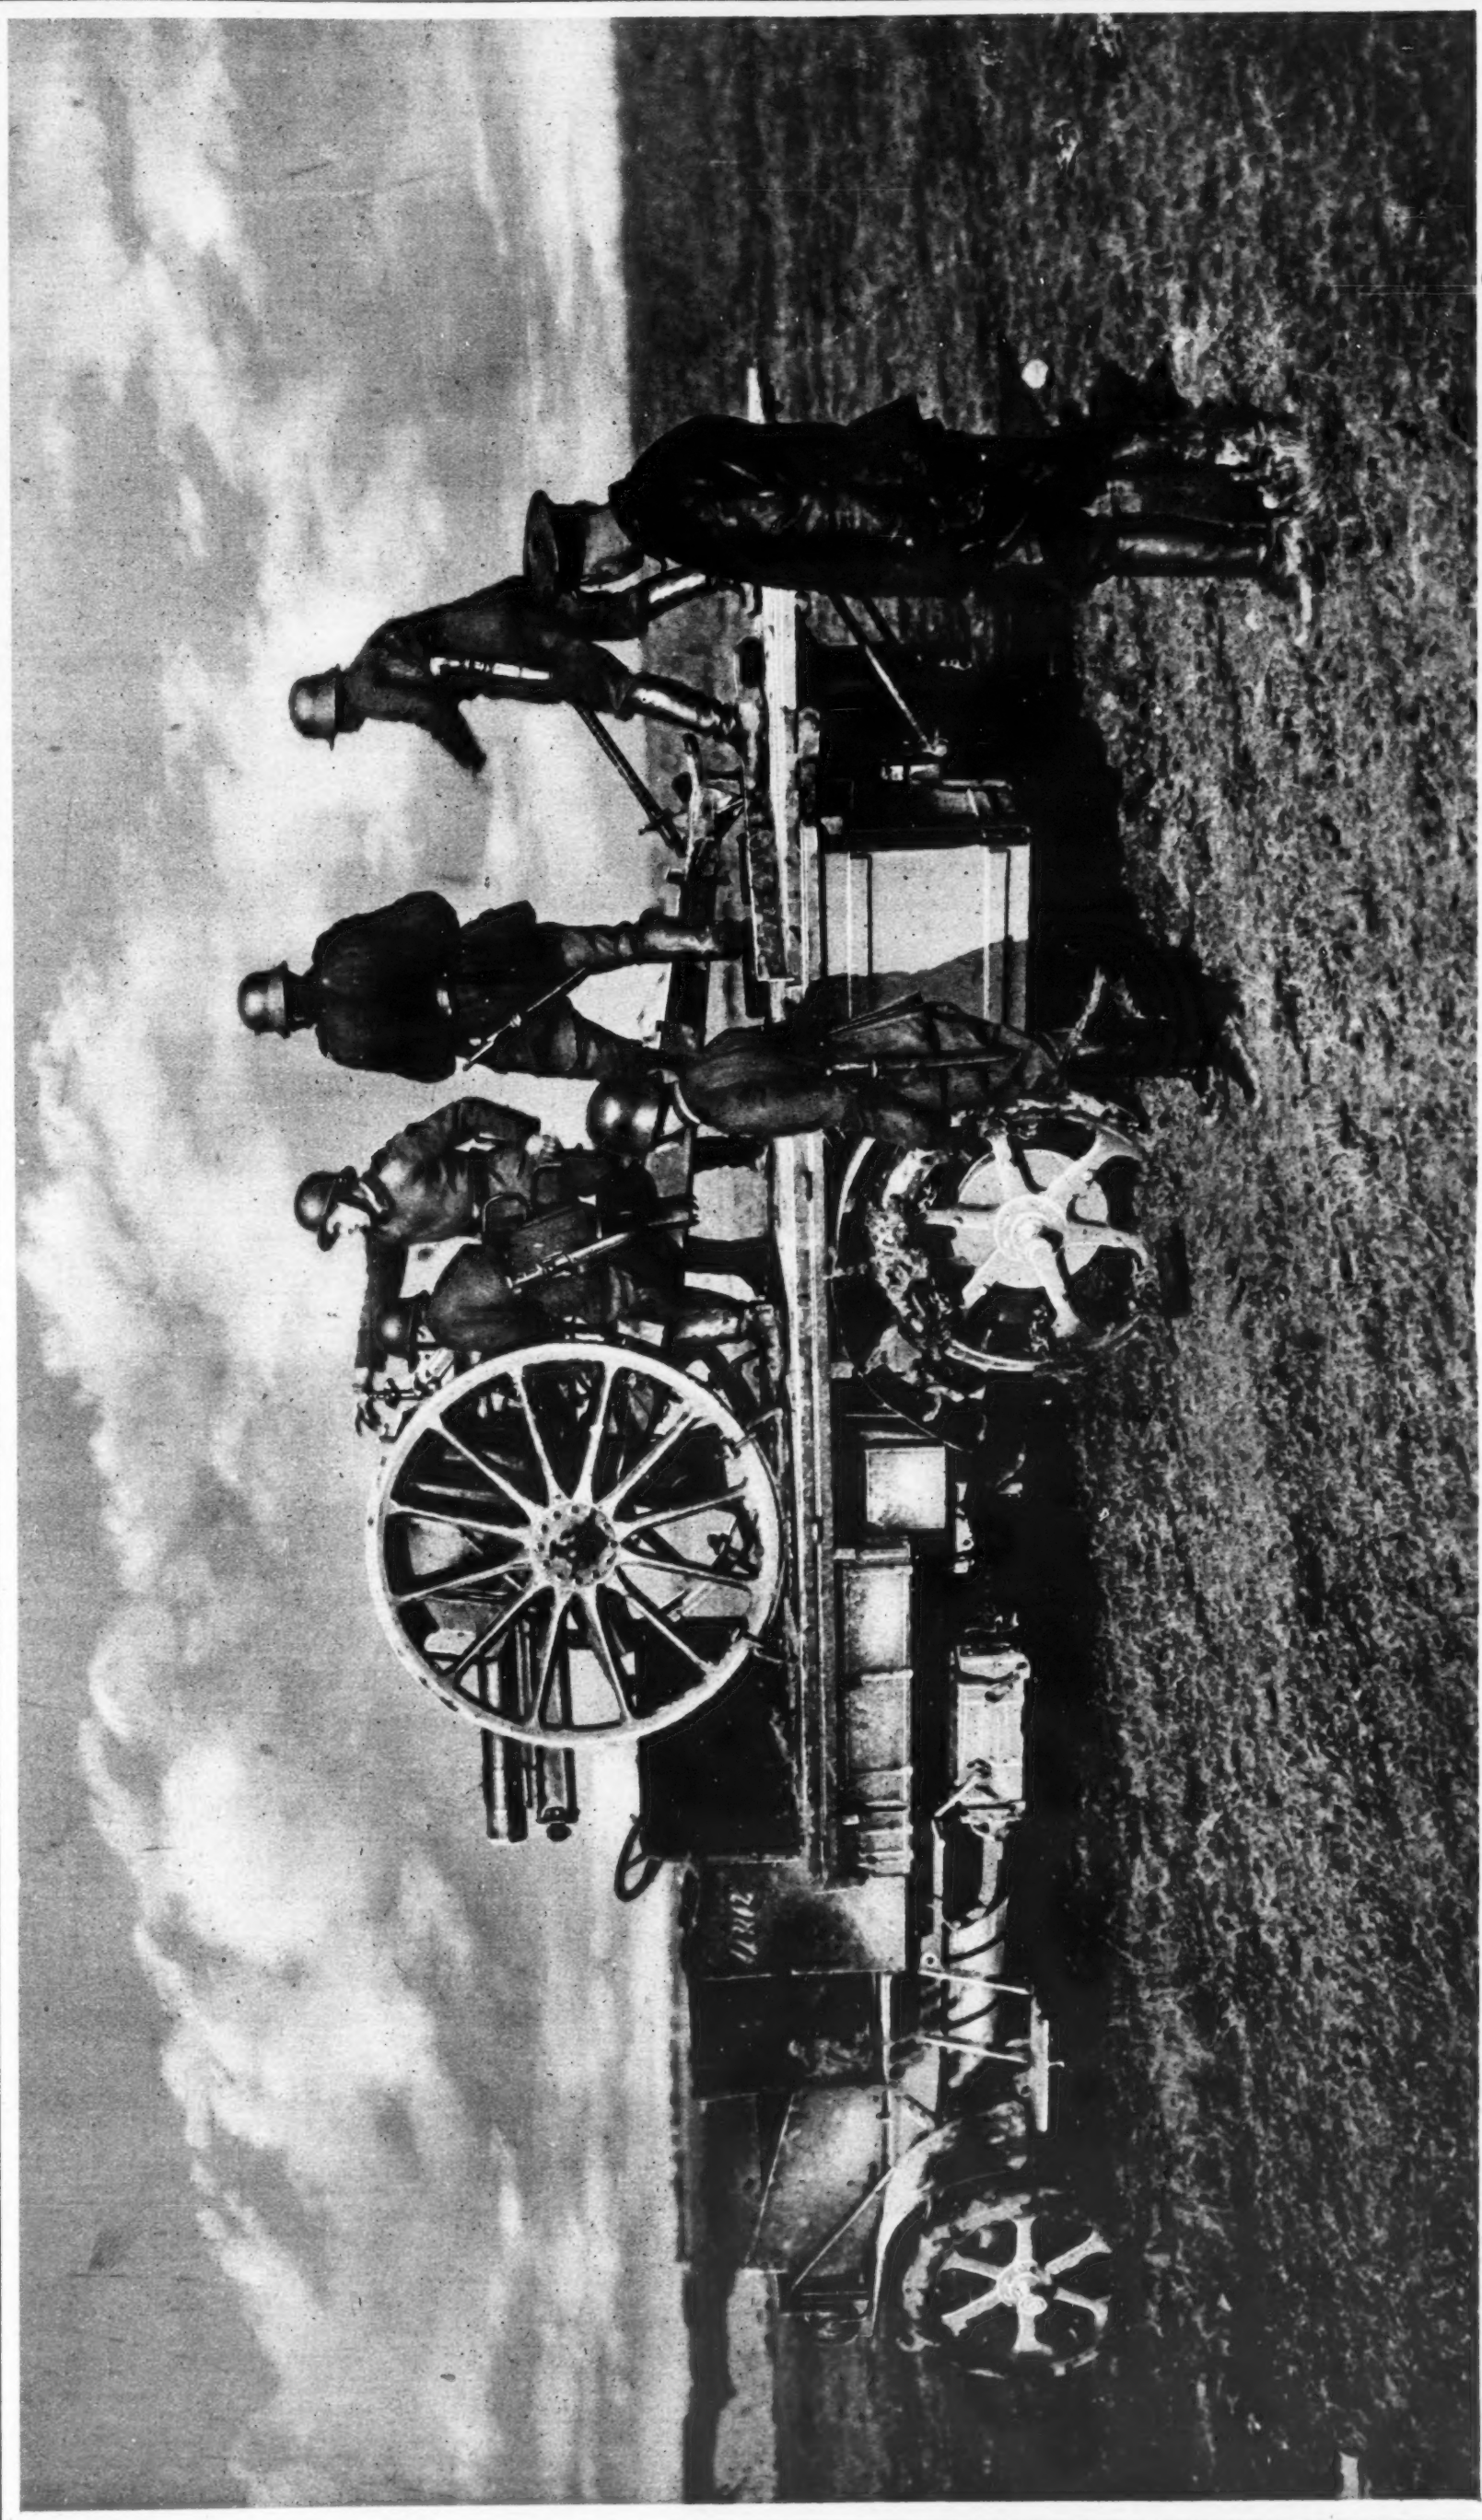

Scenes that Are Growing Familiar in France as the German Forces Are Driven Back

THE PICTURE SHOWS A COTTAGE IN DOMELIEU, FRANCE, TO WHICH ITS OWNERS ARE RETURNING, FOLLOWING A VICTORIOUS FRENCH ADVANCE.

(© International Film Service.)

German Method of Quickly Moving Artillery to Vital Points

DURING THEIR RECENT RETREAT THE GERMANS STIFFENED THEIR REARGUARD RESISTANCE
BY MOUNTING GUNS ON TRUCKS THAT COULD BE RAPIDLY MOVED TO THE REAR WHEN NECESSARY.
(© Photo Theo. Mousaoui.)

Huge Plants and Workshops Behind the Lines in France

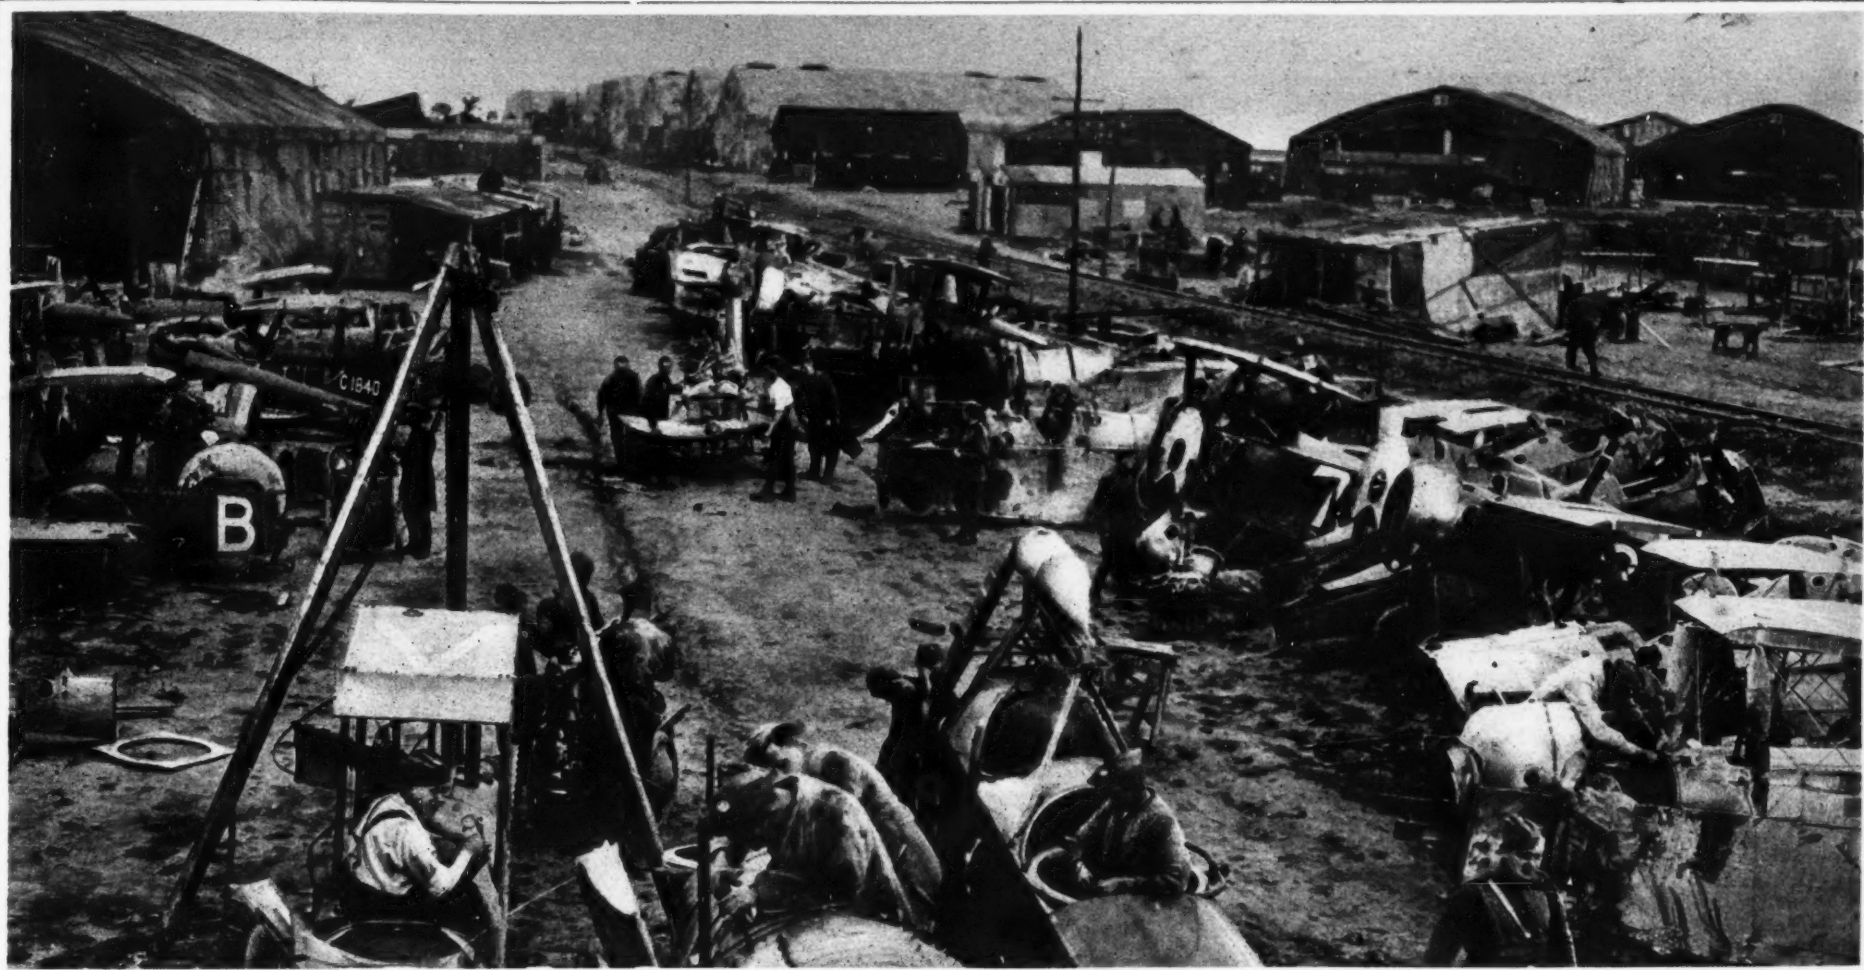

SOLDIER MECHANICS ASSEMBLING AND REPAIRING PARTS OF MOTOR MACHINES IN FRENCH WORKSHOP.
(British Official Photo © International Film Service Co.)

EXPERT SOLDIER FOUNDRYMEN IN FRANCE MELTING SCRAP AND CASTING NEW PARTS FOR MOTOR LORRIES.
(British Official Photo © International Film Service Co.)

Where Machines Disabled in Battle Are Repaired

THE REPAIRING OF DAMAGED AIRPLANES REQUIRES LARGE SPACE AND IS CHIEFLY DONE IN THE OPEN.
(British Official Photo © Western Newspaper Union.)

AIRPLANE MECHANICS TESTING AN ENGINE SALVAGED FROM PLANE THAT HAS FALLEN WITHIN THE LINES.
(British Official Photo © Western Newspaper Union.)

The great strain upon the resources of all the nations at war makes it important that nothing shall be sent to the scrap heap that can possibly be repaired and again put in service. With this end in view a vast number of repair plants have been established behind the battle lines where skilled mechanics are constantly busy in restoring the effectiveness of damaged machines, weapons, vehicles and all implements used in war. This not only conserves precious material, but enables the repaired machine to get into action much more quickly than the new one which otherwise would take its place. The saving of tonnage space is especially important in view of the fact that new material would be brought chiefly from Great Britain and America, whose transportation facilities are already taxed to the utmost.

Our Nation's Roll of Honor

Sgt. William Lesselyoung,
Marshfield, Wis.,
Killed in Action.

Lieutenant E. J. Veasey, Jr.,
Lima, Ohio,
Died of Wounds.

Private Duncan Q. Guiney,
Yonkers, N. Y.,
Killed in Action.

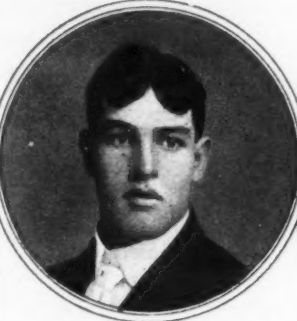

Lieutenant A. B. Thaw,
New York City,
Died, Airplane Accident.

Corporal Harry C. Frey,
New York City,
Killed in Action.

Sergeant William H. Dillon,
New York City,
Killed in Action.

Pvt. Edward Raymond Paul,
Pearl River, N. Y.,
Died of Wounds.

Private Francis F. Barber,
Laytonville, Md.,
Died of Wounds.

Pvt. Alexander J. Rudeau,
Jersey City, N. J.,
Died of Wounds.

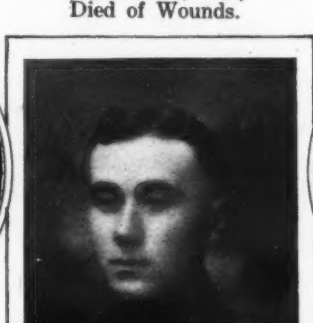

Sergeant Jay Taylor Glenn,
Gregory, Mich.,
Killed in Action.

Lieutenant E. B. Thorsen,
West Ashland, Wis.,
Died of Wounds.

Sergeant J. C. Newman,
New York City,
Killed in Action.

Lieut. Howard L. Strohl,
Hellertown, Pa.,
Killed in Action.

Sergeant Leonard C. Purkey,
Gray Bull, Wyo.,
Died of Wounds.

Lieutenant Neil B. Finley,
Memphis, Tenn.,
Killed in Action.

Corporal James J. Ahearn,
Waterbury, Conn.,
Killed in Action.

Private A. P. Sawyer, Jr.,
Brookfield, Mass.,
Died of Wounds.

Corporal John R. O'Hara,
Carrington, N. D.,
Died of Wounds.

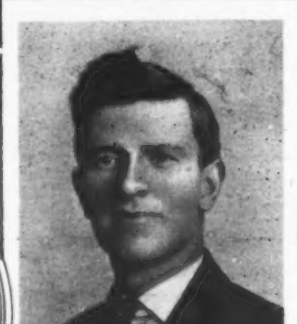

Private F. F. Kanzler,
New York City,
Died of Wounds.

Sergeant Alvin W. Dean,
Pittsfield, Ill.,
Killed in Action.

1st Lt. Daniel W. Cassard,
Grand Rapids, Mich.,
Killed in Airplane Combat.

Private Harry G. McCarty,
Liverpool, W. Va.,
Killed in Action.

Corporal F. S. Hughes,
Brooklyn, N. Y.,
Killed in Action.

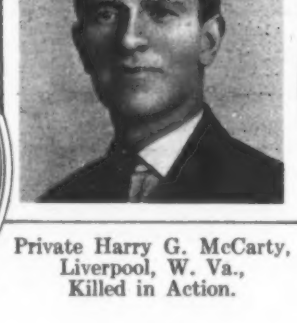

Private Emanuel Brode,
New York City,
Killed in Action.

Lieutenant H. C. Hill,
Pittston, Penn.,
Died of Wounds.

Private G. M. Tuttle,
Winsted, Conn.,
Died of Wounds.

Private Louis Cohen,
New York City,
Killed in Action.

Our Nation's Roll of Honor

Private A. Conicello,
Conahohocken, Penn.,
Killed in Action.

Lieut. Marion C. Cranefield,
Madison, Wis.,
Killed in Action.

Lieut. J. G. MacDonough,
New York City,
Died of Wounds.

Private Frank L. Allyn, Jr.,
Woodhaven, N. Y.,
Killed in Action.

Private Oliver Bouchard,
Rochester, N. Y.,
Died of Accident.

Private L. M. Reynolds,
St. Louis, Mo.,
Killed in Action.

Corporal P. J. Serra,
Brooklyn, N. Y.,
Died of Wounds.

Private James W. Brewer,
Greeley, Neb.,
Killed in Action.

Sergeant W. M. Keefer,
Pine Grove, Penn.,
Killed in Action.

Sergeant George Girard,
Southbridge, Mass.,
Killed in Action.

Lieut. Egbert F. Tetley,
North Chelmsford, Mass.,
Killed in Action.

Private J. G. Cyphers,
Syracuse, N. Y.,
Died of Wounds.

Lieut. Edward F. Graham,
Buffalo, N. Y.,
Killed in Action.

Private W. C. Schleiger,
New Britain, Conn.,
Killed in Action.

Lieut. Orville P. Johnson,
Albany, N. Y.,
Killed in Action.

Sergeant Charles T. Rooney,
Circleville, Ohio,
Died of Wounds.

Private R. S. Moore,
Emaus, Penn.,
Killed in Action.

Sgt. Richard C. Johnson,
Eau Claire, Wis.,
Killed in Action.

Private Thomas F. Mahon,
Hartford, Conn.,
Killed in Action.

Sergeant A. E. Rothfus,
Grand Rapids, Mich.,
Killed in Action.

Lieutenant F. R. Marston,
Pensacola, Fla.,
Killed in Action.

Capt. William H. Coacher,
Mitchell, S. D.,
Died of Wounds.

Private Daniel J. Sheehan,
New York City,
Killed in Action.

Corporal J. V. Humphrey,
Truesdale, Mo.,
Killed in Action.

Lieut. Mercer M. Phillips,
Acworth, Ga.,
Died of Wounds.

Pvt. William T. Bradbrook,
Greystone, R. I.,
Killed in Action.

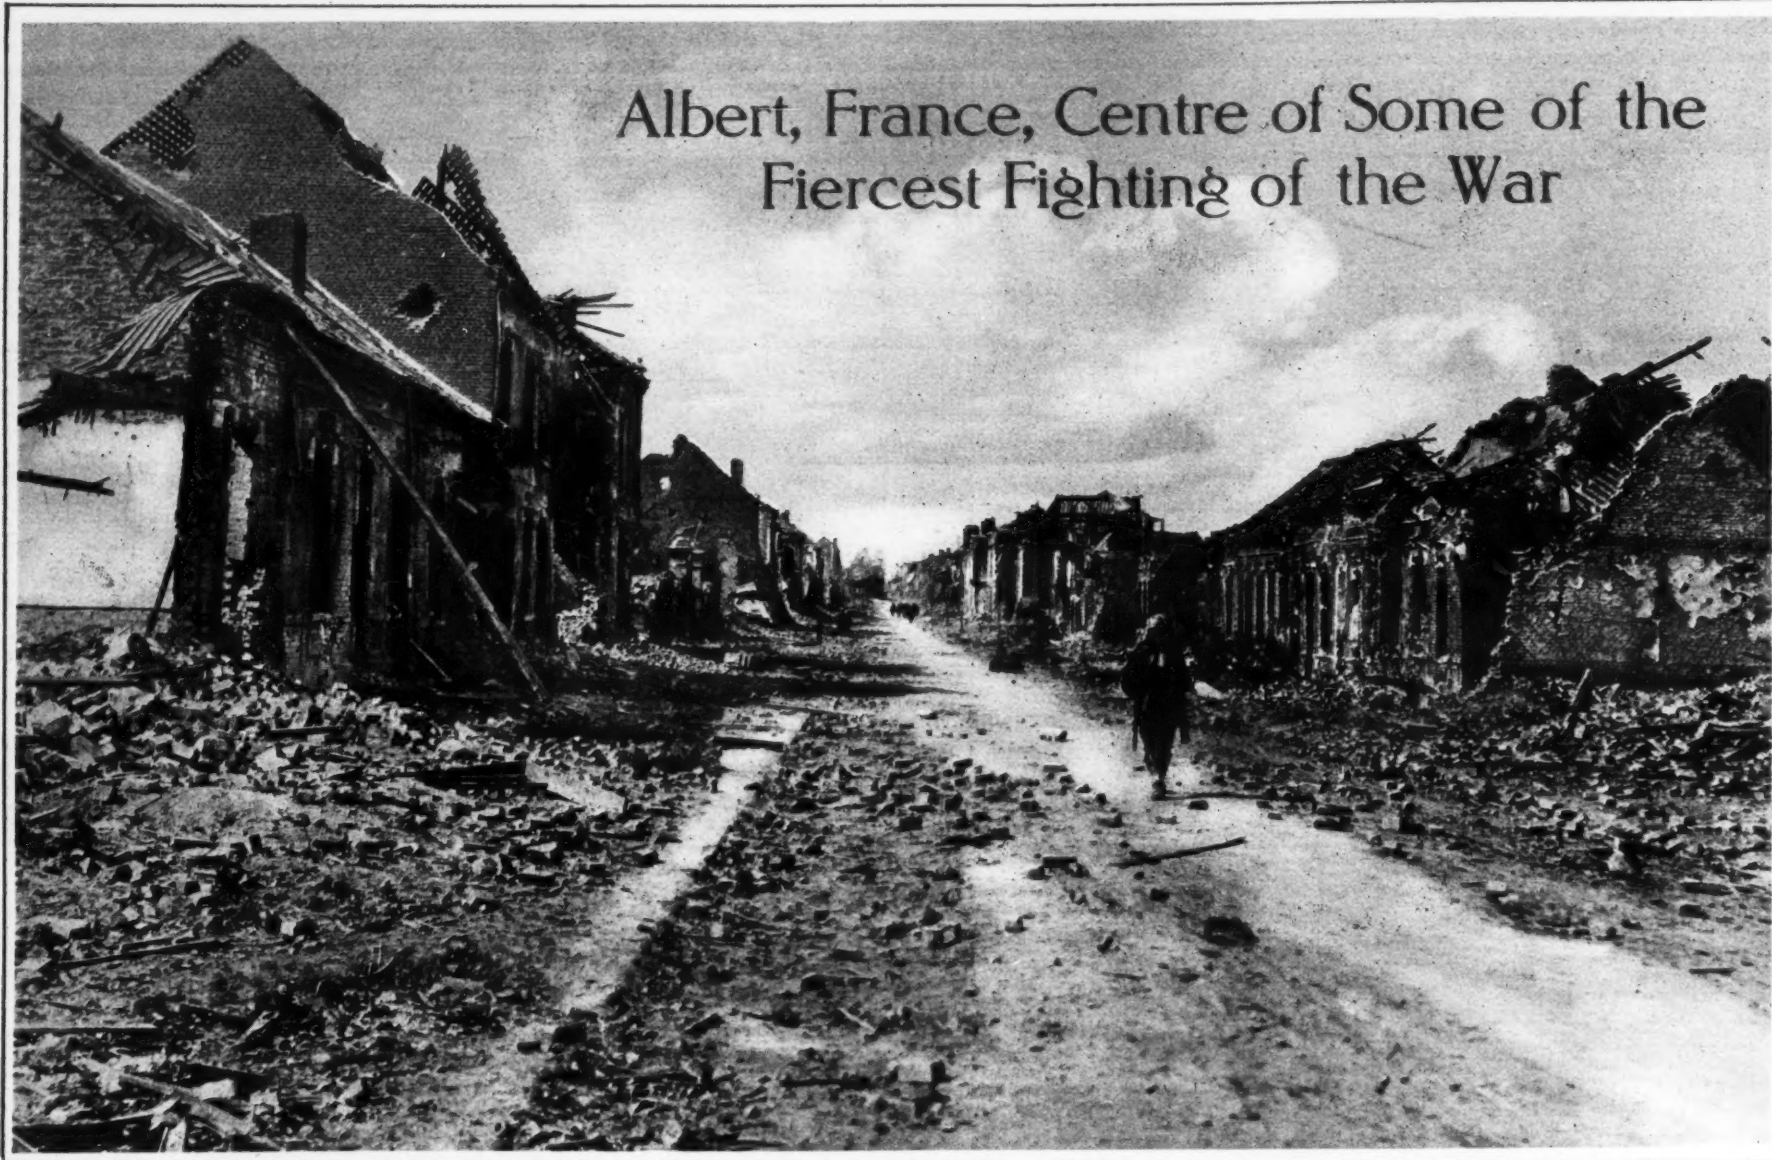

Private George R. Ayers,
Cedarburg, Wis.,
Killed in Action.

DULCE ET

DECORUM EST PRO

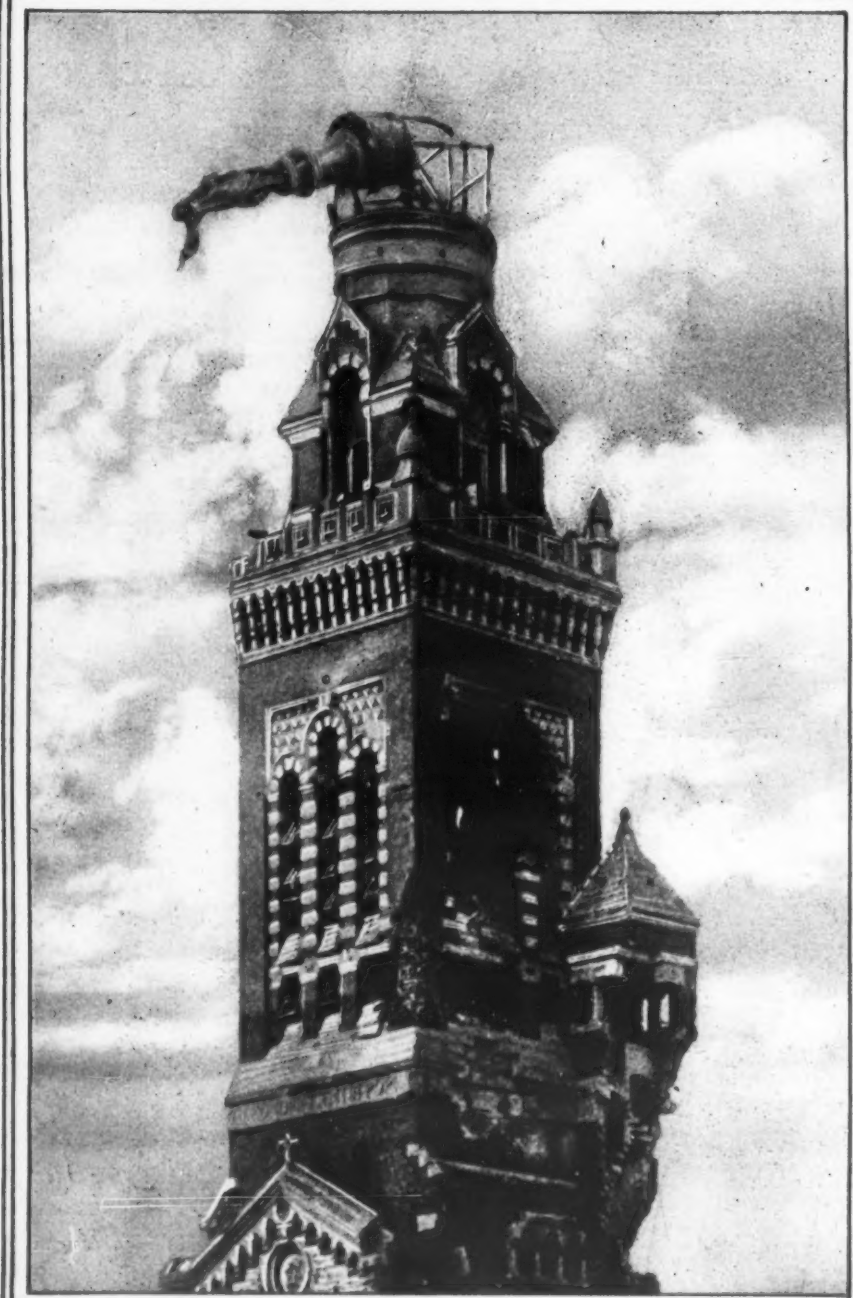

PATRIA MORI

Albert, France, Centre of Some of the Fiercest Fighting of the War

A SHELL-SWEPT STREET IN ALBERT WITH EVERY HOUSE IN RUINS, AS IT APPEARED JUST AFTER THE GERMANS HAD BEEN DRIVEN OUT OF THE TOWN AFTER DESPERATE FIGHTING.

(British Official Photo, © Underwood & Underwood.)

EXTERIOR VIEW OF THE CHURCH OF NOTRE DAME DES BREBIERES AT ALBERT. THE FIGURE OF THE VIRGIN ON THE TOWER WAS SHOT DOWN BY GERMAN ARTILLERY ON APRIL 15, 1918.

(© Central News Photo.)

THE BATTERED INTERIOR OF THE CHURCH AT ALBERT, SHOWING HOW GREAT HAS BEEN THE HAVOC WROUGHT BY GERMAN SHELLS. THE TOWER HAS ALMOST COMPLETELY VANISHED.

(British Official Photo, © Underwood & Underwood.)

A Flashlight on Some Aspects of the War

CROWN PRINCE RUPPRECHT, OF BAVARIA.

Announcement has recently been made of the betrothal of Princess Antonia of Luxemburg to Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria. The disparity of age between the two is marked and the forthcoming marriage is looked upon with disfavor by the compatriots of the Princess, a feeling that is doubtless strengthened by the general aversion felt toward their conquerors by the people of Luxemburg. The announcement has served to call public attention to the little Duchy, that even before Belgium, was forced to submit to German invasion.

Luxemburg with an area of 999 square miles and a population of less than 300,000, adjoins Germany on the east and south where the Lorraine frontier is its boundary, while its western limits are Belgium and the Woevre section of France. Historically it was a province of Belgium and so continued from 1451 to 1839, when by German political manipulation the Duchy was divided, part of it, with a capital at Arlon, being left to Belgium, while the other half, the part now under discussion, became the personal possession of the house of Orange-Nassau. In 1891, when William III. of Holland died without male issue, Luxemburg became an independent Duchy under the rule of his cousin Grand Duke Adolphus. In 1912 the ducal throne passed to the Princess Marie Adelaide, the present Grand Duchess, whose rule, however, is purely nominal, as the Duchy is wholly under German control.

MAP OF LUXEMBURG.

PRINCESS ANTONIA OF LUXEMBURG.

In a treaty to which Prussia and Austria set their seals in 1867 Luxemburg's neutrality had been perpetually guaranteed. The treaty was violated by the Germans forty-eight hours before they crossed the border of Belgium. Its rich iron mines have become the spoil of the invader, but its chief value to Germany lies in the ease and rapidity with which she can reinforce her armies in the west.

PRESENTATION OF A BATTLE FLAG TO A VENETIAN REGIMENT OF MARINES IN FRONT OF ST. MARK'S CHURCH IN VENICE.
NOTE THE PIGEONS AT THE FURTHER END OF THE GREAT PLAZA.

(© Publishers' Photo Service.)

The great Stars who are coming to entertain you at the

RIVOLI
 "Triumph of the Motion Picture"
 BROADWAY at 49th STREET

RIALTO
 "Temple of the Motion Picture"
 TIMES SQUARE

The Rivoli

The Rialto

Every week is a great star week at The Rivoli and The Rialto

For the foremost stars of the photo-play world come first in their new pictures to these magnificent homes of the better motion pictures.

Run over in your mind the names of the greatest and most popular stars of the dramatic and motion picture stages. They will all be here at The Rivoli and The Rialto during 1918-1919:

Enid Bennett in eight new pictures.
 Caruso in three new pictures.
 Marguerite Clark in eight new pictures.
 Geo. M. Cohan in three new pictures.
 Douglas Fairbanks in eight new pictures.
 Elsie Ferguson in eight new pictures.
 Pauline Frederick in three new pictures.
 Dorothy Gish in seven new pictures.
 William S. Hart in eight new pictures.
 Lila Lee in eight new pictures.
 Charles Ray in eight new pictures.

6 new Cecil B. DeMille all-star productions and 9 Paramount and Artcraft special productions.

A wonderful array certainly!

Nearly a hundred great pictures with foremost stars coming to The Rivoli and The Rialto to entertain and delight you. They are coming to your theatres because they are the sort of pictures you insist upon seeing.

Just this bare announcement of names is evidence enough why The Rivoli and The Rialto are American Institutions—the homes of the better photo-play.

If you know The Rivoli and The Rialto you know where "the foremost stars, superbly directed in clean motion pictures," are to be seen.

Paramount and Artcraft
Motion Pictures

These two trade-marks are the sure way of identifying Paramount and Artcraft Pictures—and the theatres that show them

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
 ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres JESSE L LASKY Vice Pres CECIL B DE MILLE Director General
 NEW YORK

